Dear Mr. Pommerening:

I thought you would be interested to know that a large picture of the sign posted on the Kirtland's Warbler Management Area appears in "The World of Birds" by James Fisher and Roger Tory Peterson (Doubleday & Company, Garden City, New York) page 260. This new book is large and colorful, and is aimed at a popular audience on both sides of the Atlantic. Fisher is British.

This will bring some publicity to your efforts in a most durable and widespread form.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Svensen:

I am very happy indeed to write the attached letter in support of your nomination of Robert Radke and John Byelich for conservation awards.

Just a few days ago I wrote an endorsement also for Tom Scott of Oregon, but I am hoping that my giving two endorsements will not dilute either.

I am interested to see that you have already received a copy of Animals with my Kirtland's Warbler story and pictures. I have not yet received my supply of copies or I would have sent you one. Perhaps I did not tell you how I happened to write this version. I made so many corrections in the first draft sent me by the editors that they threw up their hands and said, "Let's start all over. You write it."

Had it not been for this chain of circumstances I certainly would never have volunteered an article so parallel to the fine piece in Audubon Magazine. However it will reach a different audience for the most part, I believe.

Thank you for bringing to my attention this opportunity to give a boost to my friends Radtke and Byelich.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Mayfield:eh
